

Civic Learning Distinction

Undergraduate students: You can earn a Civic Learning Distinction!

Complete course work, participate in civic-learning-related activities and experiences, write a reflection essay about your experiences, and earn official recognition for your work.

Benefits of Earning the Civic Learning Distinction

- Build a portfolio for academic, professional, and service-oriented experiences.
- Develop the skills to critically think about how what you learn inside the classroom can be applied to your experience in the world.
- Earn a notation of your achievement on your academic transcript.
